The path of the rising and setting full moon as seen from a fixed place (such as a Henge) over the course of a year, moving in symmetrical opposition to the path of the rising and setting sun, forms a beautiful maze pattern which once can dance through.

